Who We Are

At ChemConnect, we are leaders in identifying, tracking, and engaging on chemicals management policies that impact your business! Partner with our experts to navigate the growing landscape of chemical regulatory initiatives and strategically manage your supply chains.

Let us help you!

Why Choose Us – Bridging the Information Gap

ChemConnect bridges the gap between chemical producers and downstream users. Recent and expanding regulatory activities have left downstream users exposed without realizing the potential impacts to their businesses, specifically where and how certain chemicals are used throughout supply chains. ChemConnect enables you to shift from reactive to proactive, allowing you to stay ahead of new and changing regulations. This includes identifying supply chain considerations early in the regulatory process before regulations are even finalized.

How ChemConnect Supports You

ChemConnect will help you identify:

- Key policy and marketplace developments that could limit access to critical materials/products.
- Opportunities to engage in these key public policy and marketplace developments.
- Data and information needs to support ongoing access to materials critical to your supply chain.

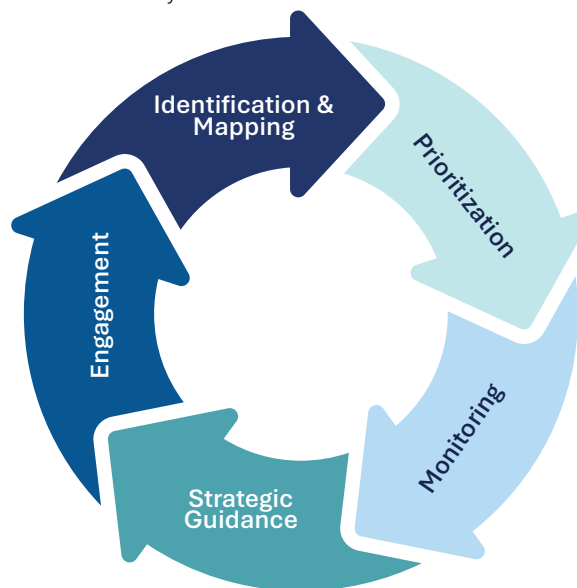

ChemConnect provides strategic guidance to:

- Identify priority chemicals that are being assessed or proposed for regulation.
- Understand information on specific chemicals and their uses within your industry.
- Evaluate potential supply chain impacts, including alternatives assessments.

Our Tools and Services

ChemConnect grants access to our network of scientific and regulatory professionals, along with a number of proprietary tools and systems to support your business. ChemConnect helps:

- Map key chemistries for participating industries and identify priority chemistries/materials
- Monitor policy developments for identified priority chemicals/materials
- Provide support and strategic guidance, including opportunities to increase engagement in support of specific advocacy efforts

Expert Industry Knowledge

ChemConnect leverages the resources and expertise of the entire chemical industry and supply chain through our exclusive cooperative agreement with the American Chemistry Council (ACC). For over 150 years, ACC's product groups have been engaged in the full range of chemicals management, including research, testing, stewardship, and regulatory policies. Our experts cover the full life cycle of chemicals, including development, production, distribution, use, and end of life/circularity and benefit from close relationships with ACC's 100+ product groups focused on specific chemicals and technologies.
